Prof. Dinkar Govind Thatte was the legend of Ayurvediya Sharir. He lived his life for the development of Ayurvediya Sharir. He blessed Ayurved community by nurturing a number of Ayurved Scholars under his umbrella. These scholars are now further engaged in the advancement of Ayurved Medical Science not only in India but abroad as well. It is only the force generated by the inspiration and blessings of Prof. Thatte sir which has inspired his disciples once again to organize another National Seminar in Jabalpur, Madhya Pradesh on the pious occasion of his Birth Anniversary after organizing an unprecedented successful National Conclave on the Medico-surgical Perspective of Ayurvediya Sharir at Raipur, Chattisgarh on 2-3 September 2017.

Paribhasha Sharir i.e. the Ayurvedic Terminology related to Sharir & Praman Sharir i.e. Anthropometry are the significant issues of Ayurvediya Sharir. The anatomical & physiological expertise of vast literature of Paribhasha Sharir as well as Praman Sharir available in Ayurvedic texts is very much necessary for understanding & applying Ayurved System of Medicine on the patients. An honest initiative to reveal the unexplored facets of these important issues are the need of hour.

Following topics for publication & presentation are proposed to send your abstracts and full papers.

1. Importance of Praman/Paribhasha Sharir (Ayurvedic Terminology)
2. Medico-surgical importance of Praman/Paribhasha Sharir.
3. Practical relevance of Anguli and Anjali Praman.
4. Importance of Praman Sharir in Paediatrics.
5. Role of Praman/Paribhasha Sharir in Prognosis.
6. References of Paribhasha/Praman Sharir in Indian Vedic Literature and their modern correlation
7. Anthropometry and Praman Sharir.
8. Importance of Praman/Paribhasha Sharir in Ayurvediya Shalya & Shalaky Chikitsa.
9. Importance of Paribhasha/Praman Sharir wsr to Marmas
10. Controversies of Paribhasha Sharir wsr to Snayu, Kurcha, Kandra, Jaala, Asthisanghat, Seemanta, Rajju, Sevani etc.
11. Any other relevant topic.
